Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

MY SECRET.

When first assurance came to me
That thy dear heart was mine,
I wandered forth upon the lea
Alone, lest all the world should see
My secret so divine.

But, ah, the world has passed me by
Nor read the secret, dear;
The poor old world, so dim of eye,
So dull of ear, 'twere vain to try
To make my feelings clear
To those who cannot know as I
Thy heart when love draws near.

THE MAN UP A TREE.

BY M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

I am something of a reformer not only in theory, but in practice, and when I discovered the man up a tree I determined to try my hand at elevating his moral standard. I hold that no man is so bad that he can't be reformed to a certain extent, and I hold that any way to bring about a betterment of his moral character is justifiable. I mean by that, to speak frankly and plainly, that, while some men can be reformed by sympathy and encouragement, others need a rap on the head with a baseball bat to arouse their dormant integrity and ambition.

I had extended sympathy and more or less financial aid to this man up a tree. In a burst of confidence he had confessed to me that he had been a swindler, a gambler, a confidence man and a great deal more. He had been "laid away" in prison two or three times during his career, had sailed under a dozen different names, and he might have admitted a murder or two had I not cut him short. I draw the line at murder. I can set out with a good deal of confidence in the task of reforming burglars, highway robbers, incendiaries, perjurers, and so forth, but when it comes to murderers I hesitate. Having become interested in this man, I didn't want him to own up to anything worse than robbing a blind man or burning an orphan asylum. He had come to me as a man who had at last seen the error of his ways and sighed to take another track and be counted with the good and respectable. He had given me the name of H. Jones-Jones. It struck me that there was an extra amount of Jones about him, but the name is an honest one, and I didn't find fault about it. He was a man of about 45, with all the evidences of his career in his face, but I didn't look for babylike innocence in his eyes. When he threw himself upon my mercy, as it were—when he made a clean breast of his wicked career and added that if any one would point out the path of honesty he would turn into it and travel on without a limp, I agreed to take him in hand. He had whiskers with which the police were acquainted, and I sent him to a barber shop. He had clothes which gave him away as a dead game sport, and I bought him a modest suit of blue. Then I gave him money for a week's vacation from crime, and when the vacation was over we were to see what further could be done. I took my week off at the same time and brought up amid the fresh buttermilk and dew kissed goldenrod of the country.

On the second night of my stay, as I sat by my open window at midnight to finish the last of my cigar and wonder if my Jones-Jones had kept straight during the last 48 hours, I suddenly caught sight of him on the ground below. It was a farmhouse hotel at which I was stopping. I had a corner room, and at that corner of the house stood a large apple tree. I had observed that a big limb branched out so close to my window that I could have descended by it. What you can descend by you can also ascend by. I had no sooner caught sight of Jones-Jones at the foot of the tree at an hour when everybody was supposed to be in bed than I understood that he intended to pay me a secret visit. How he had tracked me to my lair was of no consequence. Why he should imagine that I had brought along any great amount of boodle on my week's outing I didn't stop to figure. Indeed I am not sure that he had tracked me. In looking for country board he might have stumbled upon the place. He might have thought the open window belonged to another boarder. No matter how it was, however, Mr. Jones-Jones had no sooner begun to climb that apple tree than I made ready to receive him with all due hospitality. There was no club in the room, but the water pitcher had been filled for the night and made a good weapon. Armed with that I took my stand on one side of the window and waited. Jones-Jones was not an impetuous man. He had all night in which to climb and creep, and it was at least 15 minutes before he grasped my window sill with his hands and drew his body into the opening. I waited with patience until he had reached a particular position and then brought the pitcher down upon his head. The idea was to administer an anæsthetic, and it was a success. He pitched forward into the room with a long drawn sigh, and I lighted the lamp and took from his wrist the "billy" which he had bought in town with my money to use as a "cracker" in case his sleeping victim woke up before being plundered. Then I forced brandy between his teeth, bathed his face with water, and in the course of a quarter of an hour my midnight visitor had so far recovered his senses that I ventured to remark:

"Well, Jones-Jones, why didn't you tell me that you were coming, that I might be on the lookout for you?"

Jones-Jones sat up. He didn't recognize me. He himself had a different look on his face. That dissipated but yet crafty look had disappeared, and in its place was wonderment if not honesty. It was my wicked man in the flesh, but not in the spirit. He got off the floor and felt of the bump on his head and sat down on a chair, and it was a long five minutes before he said:

"Sir, my name is Brown-Brown, and I don't exactly understand the situation. Am I in your room, or are you in mine?"

"I believe it's my room," I replied, "but being as you arrived late and the landlord is asleep you can stop until morning."

"Very kind of you, sir—extremely kind. As to this bump on my head—is it a bump or not? If it's a bump, how did I receive it?"

"You hit your head on the door in the darkness, I believe."

"Ah! Just so. Very stupid of me, but it's only a trifle. Now, then, Mr. Ashmere, as to the business in hand. If you think you can advance me $500, I am sure I can make a go of it."

It took me a little while to catch on, but by and by I discovered that Jones-Jones had been knocked out and Brown-Brown had taken his place. Jones-Jones was a crook who wanted to reform; Brown-Brown was a poor but honest man who wanted to go into the making of shirts. He knew nothing whatever of Jones-Jones. He picked up the conversation as if he had been talking about the business when the accident happened. He called me by another name than my own, and it was plain to me that he was also another man. I sounded him about crime and state prison, but he solemnly assured me that he had never been arrested. He was Brown-Brown as far as his name went, but as for his past history he was rather hazy on the subject.

I had turned Jones-Jones, the crook, back into Brown-Brown, the honest man, by a knock on the head. It was rapid transit reformation, and I looked upon the problem as solved. Having been willing to assist a crook, I could not refuse an honest man. When my week was up, we went back to town together, and I gave Brown-Brown money enough to set up in shirtmaking. He had on the clothes I had bought Jones-Jones. He had the hair, the eyes, the mouth and the build of the crook, but there had been a change of souls. As far as the present went he was bright and talkative, but when asked of the past he looked puzzled and could not figure it out. The doctors agreed with me that it was the whack on the head that had made Brown-Brown of Jones-Jones and that the police ought to be given full power to go around breaking water pitchers over crooks' craniums; but, alas, that was a twist of the business we hadn't the foresight to discover and prepare for.

My man prospered wonderfully well. People said he was a little eccentric, but he was honest and a hard worker. In one year he had paid me back half my money and built up a good business. One day a detective entered the store to make a purchase. He had known Jones-Jones as a crook. He knew that Jones-Jones had a crooked finger on his right hand and a mole on his left cheek. When he discovered that Brown-Brown had these same identification marks, he began to look at him more closely, and by and by he made up his mind that the old crook stood before him. He was so sure of it that he set out to make an arrest. Brown-Brown was an honest man, but in his surprise he started to make a bolt of it. As he ran out of his shop and down the street, pursued by the detective, he encountered a policeman who tapped him on the head with his club. Brown-Brown went down like a log and was carted off to the station. I was present when his senses returned, and you can imagine my feelings when he sat up and said:

"Well, you've got me at last, but I gave you a run for it. You fellers ain't half sharp."

"You are Jones-Jones, the crook," said the sergeant.

"Of course I am, and the slickest crook in the country. Is it that bank business you want me for this time?"

"Mr. Brown-Brown"— I began as I stepped forward, but the crook stopped me with:

"Who in blank is Brown-Brown?"

Then I realized how it was. I had smashed Jones-Jones, the crook, over the head with a water pitcher and changed him into Brown-Brown, the honest shirt constructor. The policeman had smashed Brown-Brown with his club and changed him back into Jones-Jones, the crook. The taps on the head had done the business. My tap was all right, and I had founded a new theory upon it and invested $500 in cash. But I hadn't foreseen that a second tap might come any day, as come it did, and my theory had been knocked into a cocked hat, and I was $250 out.

His Moments of Joy.

Did you ever hear of the strange man who went out to a summer hotel once for a holiday? He impressed on the clerk the first day he was there that it was of vital importance that he be called at 6 o'clock next morning. He was called. He didn't come down stairs till 2 in the afternoon. The injunction to the clerk was repeated every day, and every day the mysterious guest staid in his room till late in the afternoon. When he had been at the place a week and was about to leave, the clerk said to him:

"I beg your pardon, sir; it's none of my business, but why have you left orders to be called at 6 o'clock every morning and never got out of bed till several hours later?"

"Well," he replied, "I'll tell you. Back in the city I've got a job that compels me to get up every morning, summer and winter, at 6 o'clock. This is my first vacation for five years. Every day when your bellboy has come up stairs and banged at the door I've started up to dress and get down to the office and then suddenly let the conviction steal blissfully over my brain that I didn't have to. Then I've gone back to bed, hugged the pillow and dreamed that I was in the Elysian fields. That moment of joy that has followed the banging on my door every morning has been worth three times the price of the bill."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Sympathy Misplaced.

One day during a cold snap last winter I saw an old man in a grocery acting rather suspiciously, and soon I saw him steal a potato from a barrelful of the tubers that stood outside the counter. The old fellow slipped out of the house as soon as he could conveniently and limped away. I followed him, thinking to give him what change I could spare, for I thought he must be desperately poor if he must steal a potato.

When I caught up with him and offered him a little money, the old man roared with laughter. When he had got his breath again, he said:

"You saw me steal the potato, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir, I did."

"Well, lemme tell you, my son, I've got potatoes to sell. I raise thousands of bushels of them. I've got the biggest market garden in this county, and I've got more money than you ever saw. Carryin a potato in your pocket will cure the rheumatiz, but for it to do any good you've got to steal the potato. See?

I saw. And I sawed wood.—Will Visscher in Woman's Home Companion.

Bad Manners.

An old gentleman, walking up Cork Hill, Dublin, overtook a coal cart heavily loaded and drawn by a wretched quadruped with its legs bending under it, its bones sticking through its skin.

"How can you ill treat your horse so?" he cried, addressing the driver. "It is quite exhausted. Look at the way its tongue is hanging out."

"Exhausted, is it?" answered the boy. "Why, 'tis the bad manners of him. He's putting it out at you!"—London Tit-Bits.

Tears

Many a woman has periodic crying spells. She meets her husband with eyes red and swollen and he cries out: "What has happened?" "Nothing" his wife replies. "I don't know what is the matter with me, but I just had to have a good cry." Men don't have crying spells. It would seem therefore that an affection confined to women must have its cause in the womanly nature. There is no doubt that a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organs, is in general responsible for feminine nervousness and hysteria.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes women happy by making them healthy. There are no more crying spells. "Favorite Prescription" cures inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

There is no medicine "just as good." Accept no substitute.

"For three years," writes Mrs. Mary A. Sasser, of High, Lamar Co., Texas, "I suffered with falling of the womb, also ulceration of the womb. After using three bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription,' four of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets,' I found relief. I am able to do my work with ease. I recommend your wonderful medicine to all my friends, for I truly believe it saved my life."

Free. Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Cloth binding 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Great Republican Victory.

THE result of the election held last Tuesday was a great triumph for McKinley's administration and the Republican party.

McKinley and Roosevelt will be chosen President and Vice-President by one of the largest majorities ever cast in the Electoral College.

California gives the Republican standard bearers over 40,000 majority and elects a solid delegation of seven Congressmen. The Legislature will also be overwhelmingly Republican.

In Sonoma county McKinley's majority is over 800 and that of Frank L. Coombs for Congress will exceed 700. Cromwell, Rep., is elected Assemblyman in the Sixteenth district by 600 majority and H. W. Austin, Rep., is elected Supervisor in the Third district.

The Democrats re-elect Cowan Assemblyman from this the Seventeenth District by a majority of 186. They have also secured two of the three Supervisors—Blair Hart in the First district and Frank B. Glynn in the Fifth district. This gives them control of the Board of Supervisors, which will stand four Democrats to one lonely Republican. This is about the only comfort they received out of the entire election returns.

Weather and Crops.

THE season so far has been a most auspicious one for Sonoma Valley. The rains of last month enabled our farmers to commence plowing and already a large area of land has been seeded. Grass is growing luxuriously and there is an abundauce of green feed for stock, which has already commenced to wax fat on the succulent grasses. The past season has been a most prosperous one for our dairymen—feed in plenty and high prices for dairy produce. The coming season bids fair to be another money-making one for them. The vintage season just closed has also raised the spirits of our wine-growers, as the cellars of red and white wine throughout the valley are commanding better prices to-day than for a number of years.

With a prosperous season at his back and a most favorable one ahead the Sonoma Valley farmer can be set down as being all right for another twelfth month at least.

BOSS REED is out $10 on the election and his two quarter eagles now repose serenely in the inside pocket of that hated INDEX-TRIBUNE man. It happened this way: Reed made two five-dollar bets that T. C. Putnam would be elected Supervisor. These wagers were made with Aaron Astill and Al Weaver. These gentlemen then made a bet of $5 each against $10 with ye editor that Bryan would defeat McKinley. Result: Reed lost his money on Putnam and the newspaper man raked in the coin on McKinley from the Hart winners. The Boss as a club manipulator may be a success—for didn't he elect McKinley, Roosevelt, Coombs and—Blair Hart? But he has a whole lot to learn about betting on elections. So long, old sport.

THE overwhelming defeat of T. C. Putnam for re-election to the office of Supervisor of the First District ought to act as a warning to his successor to retire after having served his four-year term of office. If there is any one thing that will irretrievably down a man politically it is that of running the roads for the dear people of Sonoma and Vallejo Townships for a period of four years. His name is simply mud after passing through the ordeal.

HENRY C. DIBBLE, the scheming politician of San Francisco, has been defeated for re election to the Assembly, thanks to the Call which put up a vigorous and winning fight against him.

JUDGE DAINGERFIELD, who incurred the displeasure of the Examiner, through the efforts of that paper was defeated for Superior Judge in San Francisco Tuesday.

THE OBSERVER.

San Francisco and The Gamblers.

The charter which San Francisco recently adopted provides that if a certain percentage of the voters sign a petition to have an ordinance submitted to popular vote at a regular election it must be submitted. So the gamblers, touts, and law-breaking element in general of that city put their thievish heads together and drew up a disreputable, character-destroying ordinance permitting gambling of all sorts. They found the requisite number of signers, and the ordinance was submitted to the people last Tuesday. It was defeated. The virtue-loving, clean, decent-minded people of the city defeated it. This is pleasing to the great majority of people throughout our State and the Pacific coast. San Francisco is the metropolis of the West. It is in San Francisco that visitors to our State form their ideas of our culture and standards of life. The quiet living that graces our smaller towns is unnoticed. San Francisco is the center of our social, business, æsthetic and moral activities. She is our representative in the world just as surely as Mr. Choate is the nation's representative in England. If she is of good report we do not have to blush every time we open the pages of a traveler's experience.

Belittling a Great Man.

Some people cannot champion a good cause without attempting to belittle in some way the position which others may hold. In an article entitled, "Why omit Hamilton from the Hall of Fame?" written by Gertrude Atherton and published in The Examiner of November seventh, occurs the following paragraph:

> "Without wishing to depreciate a man so remarkable in many ways as Washington, I shall state that students of history all know now that he was a bit of a humbug in some respects; moreover, that his real and indisputable greatness was in the field rather than in the executive chair. That he consulted Hamilton upon every important question—depended on him—is notorious, as is the fact of our still existing and manifold indebtedness to that greatest of all great American statesmen."

From this are we to infer that Washington was a humbug because he consulted with Hamilton on every important question? Or that Hamilton was a great man because Washington, the humbug, consulted him? According to this reasoning Lincoln was a gigantic humbug, for he consulted with everybody. In other words any man is a humbug who consults with his friends before beginning an important action; a farmer is a humbug if he consults with Mr. Burbank concerning potatoes or fruit trees. So Washington was a humbug. Thus an authoress may explore the barren stretches of her misconceptious, talk in disregard of reason and fact, and the Examiner will publish her twaddle and surround her portrait with an olive wreath. It is as though one should say to an oak, "You are a humbug: You get your strength from the earth."

He Rose Rapidly.

In speaking of the late Ballard Smith the Louisville Courier-Journal says that when he first sought a position in a newspaper office after graduating from Dartmouth college he entered the sanctum with an air of condescension. He wore a silk tile and a velvet jacket. He said he would like to be dramatic editor, but he was given a place on the local staff. In less than six months he was made city editor. After that his rise in journalism was rapid.

Probably.

"That Baltimore woman who gave her pet monkey a first class funeral must have been greatly attached to the animal."

"Yes; it probably gave her a regular monkey wrench to part with it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

According to the ancient Chinese writers, the chronology of that country goes back 2,267,000 years.

It's Easy To Take

Thin, pale, anæmic girls need a fatty food to enrich their blood, give color to their cheeks and restore their health and strength. It is safe to say that they nearly all reject fat with their food.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA is exactly what they require; it not only gives them the important element (cod-liver oil) in a palatable and easily digested form, but also the hypophosphites which are so valuable in nervous disorders that usually accompany anæmia.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is a fatty food that is more easily digested than any other form of fat. A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health. You can get it in this way.

We have known persons to gain a pound a day while taking it.

SOME MORE CENSUS RETURNS.

Sonoma Township Now Has a Population 3172—Other Figures.

Sonoma Valley, according to official census returns, now has a population of 3172 as against 2,500 ten years ago, showing an increase of 672.

The population of Sonoma City, on the other hand, has decreased from 757 in 1890 to 652 in 1900. This decrease was caused by the decline of the basalt block industry, which ten or fifteen years ago gave employment to a large number of blockmakers.

The following table shows the population of the other towns and townships of Sonoma county in 1890 and 1900.

Crouching

In every cough there lurks, like a crouching tiger, the probabilities of consumption. The throat and lungs become rough and inflamed from coughing and the germs of consumption find an easy entrance. Take no chances with the dangerous foe. For 60 years there has been a perfect cure. What a record! Sixty years of cures.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

soothes and heals the wounded throat and lungs. You escape an attack of consumption with all its terrible suffering and uncertain results.

There is nothing so bad for the throat and lungs as coughing.

A 25c. bottle will cure an ordinary cough; harder coughs will need a 50c. size; the dollar bottle is cheapest in the long run.

"One of my sons was spitting blood with a high fever and was very ill. We could hardly see any signs of life in him. The doctors did him no good. But one bottle of your Cherry Pectoral cured him and saved his life." C. G. ANDERSON, Nov. 10, 1898, Pukwana, S. Dak.

"Poor Health"

Is the worst kind of poverty. However rich a woman may be, if her health is "poor" she is poor indeed. She has no appetite for food and the choicest dishes cannot tempt her. She turns and tosses through a restless night on a couch which might woo an empress to slumber. She has no strength for household cares, no delight in social pleasure. She sits "perked up in a glistering grief wearing a golden sorrow." She is a wife and mother. But she has no happiness in either relation. She knows her husband's life is set in tune and time to the minor music of her own misery. If her child laughs or cries her nerves quiver with pain.

Ask such a woman if she would like to be well; to be her husband's comrade, her child's playmate. Could there be but one answer?

Such a woman can get well if she will. All her symptoms indicate a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organism. Cure that condition and the woman will be lifted up to the full enjoyment of health.

In ninety-eight cases out of every hundred Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure womanly diseases, will restore the womanly health. It has cured tens of thousands of women many of whom had been given up by physicians and friends. It is essentially a medicine for woman's ills. It dries enfeebling drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration. It cures female weakness and bearing down pains. It tranquilizes the nerves, restores the appetite and gives refreshing sleep.

"Favorite Prescription" differs from almost all other medicines put up for woman's use in that it contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is in the truest sense of the term a temperance medicine.

A Constant Sufferer.

"I had been a constant sufferer from uterine disease for five years," writes J. A. Steorts, of Yankee Dam, Clay Co., West Virginia, "and for six months previous to taking your medicine I was not out of my room. Could not walk or stand, as there was such pain and drawing in left side and bearing down weight in region of uterus, accompanied with soreness. I suffered constantly with headache, pain in back, shoulders, arms and chest; had palpitation, nervous prostration, constipation, dizziness, ringing in ears; could not sleep, and breathing was so difficult at times I could not lie down. Words fail to describe my sufferings when I wrote to you for advice. In a short time I received a kind letter from you telling me I would be greatly benefited, if not entirely cured, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I had taken one bottle of the 'Prescription,' together with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and the local treatment which you advised, I could walk (with the support of a cane), the drawing and pain in side and bearing down weight were not so bad, and when I had taken three bottles of the medicine the periods were regulated, I was not so nervous, could sleep well, and the pain in side and bearing down had vanished. I have taken six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' two of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and my health is better at this time than it has been in five years.

"With grateful thanks for your kind advice, and with best wishes."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a most effective laxative for women. They cure biliousness and sick headache.

WILL OF ROBT. CRANE.

Disposes of an Estate Valued at $31,000.

Mrs. Susan C. Crane Wednesday filed her petition in the Superior Court for the probate of the will of the late Deacon Robert Crane, who left property valued at about $31,000.

The main items of property of the estate enumerated in the petition are the home ranch of 480 acres, which is valued at $20,000; another ranch near the home place of 120 acres, valued at $4,000; 160 acres of land in Tulare county, valued at $1,000; personal property, cattle, horses, etc., valued at $3,200; cash in bank, $1,600; certificate of deposit, $200.

One half of the estate is willed absolutely to his widow and the remainder to the children in equal shares. Mrs. Crane is made sole executrix without bonds. A codicil to the will executed in 1895, devised the share of the estate left to Mrs. Ward, one of the devisee's daughters, to his children, she having died since the execution of the will.—Press-Democrat.

BASALT BLOCK INDUSTRY TO BE REVIVED IN SONOMA.

A $100,000 Corporation to Work the S. Schocken Quarries.

For a number of years the basalt block industry of Sonoma has been on the wane. In former years our basalt block quarries gave employment to hundreds of men at remunerative wages and made times flush in Sonoma.

It is now proposed to revive the industry and with that object in view a close corporation with a capital stock of $100,000 is being organized to work the Schocken quarries on the hill north of town.

These quarries embrace an area of seventy acres and contain an unlimited quantity of basalt rock clean and free from dirt. It is estimated that 2,000,000 blocks can be turned out of these quarries annually for the next fifty years without exhausting the rock now in sight on the hill.

In addition to working the quarries it is the intention of the corporation to put up a rock crusher to crush the refuse rock and sell the same in the open market. The cost of the crusher and the necessary buildings to go with it will be about $10,000. There is at present lying on the dump heaps of the quarries about a million tons of broken rock that are available for this purpose.

The proposed corporation also has in view the building of a summer resort on the hill near the Schocken spring and the construction of an electric railway from the quarries to tide water, a distance of seven miles.

Twenty thousand dollars of the capital stock of the proposed corporation have already been subscribed and no doubt the balance will be speedily forthcoming, as there is a clear profit for the corporation of between $15,000 and $20,000 per annum from the sale of blocks, crushed rock, etc.

The success of this undertaking will mean a big thing for Sonoma.

HEAVENLY ARTILLERY.

Thor and Jupiter Pluvius Celebrate With the Republicans.

This valley was visited by an old-fashioned thunder and lightning storm Wednesday morning last. The lightning came in spiteful flashes and uncomfortably near terra firma. The thunder claps which accompanied the flashes reverberated loud and continuously overhead. The thunder and lightning continued at intervals for fifteen or twenty minutes. Evidently the gods, particularly Thor the Thunderer and Jupiter Pluvius, are in full accord with the voters of the country in their selection of the Republican standard bearers to guide the destinies of the Republic for another four years, and turned loose their heavenly artillery to show their patriotism.

Dastardly Deed.

Wednesday evening after the late train reached Santa Rosa, the crew put the train away on the side track near the depot as usual and left for their homes. At 11 o'lock Station Agent Will Spridgen was awakened by the sound of a train moving rapidly through the yards and, looking out of the window, saw the engine and cars speeding down the track. The switch was turned so that there was what is termed in railroad parlence a "short rail" and the engine was derailed.

Mr. Spridgen boarded the engine and shut off the steam. He then called the crew and they had to work several hours to put the engine back on the track. No damage was done. The persons who started the train, tied the bell cord to the throttle and from the rear of the train pulled the trottle open and jumped.

That Low Animal, Man.

Instead of the highest, man is in some respects the lowest of the animal kingdom. Man is the most unchaste, the most drunken, the most egotistic, the most miserly, the most hypocritical and the most atrocious of living creatures. No animal, except man, kills for the mere sake of killing. For one being to take the life of another for purposes of selfish utility is bad enough, conscience knows, but the indiscriminate massacre of defenseless victims by armed and organized packs, just for pastime, is beyond characterization. The human species is the only species of animals that plunges to such depths of atrocity. Even vipers and hyenas do not kill for recreation.

No animal, except man, habitually seeks wealth purely out of an insane impulse to accumulate, and no animal, except man, gloats over accumulations that are of no possible use to him, that are an injury and an abomination and in whose acquisition he has committed irreparable crimes upon others. There are no millionaires—no professional, legalized, lifelong kleptomaniacs—among the birds and quadrupeds. No animal except man spends so large a part of his energies striving for superiority—not superiority in usefulness, but that superiority which consists in simply getting on the heads of one's fellows to crow—and no animal practices common, ordinary morality to the beings of the world in which he lives so little, compared with the amount he preaches it, as man.—Humane Review.

The Production of Caviare.

Two distinct varieties of caviare are manufactured in Russia—the granulated and the pressed forms. The granulated form is obtained by passing the fish roes under pressure through a fine meshed sieve. The small eggs pass intact, but the envelopes are retained in the sieve. To these pure salt is added in the proportion of one-twentieth or one-fortieth. It is intimately mixed with the eggs by means of a kind of wooden spoon. The caviare is then ready for consumption. It is packed in round metallic boxes of one and a half to five pounds and enveloped in parchment for transportation. The pressed caviare keeps better than the granulated form.

To obtain it the fresh caviare is treated with a solution of salt at 25 degrees Baume until the eggs acquire a certain degree of hardness. This operation requires considerable skill and experience. If allowed to stay in the solution too long, the caviare will be too salty, and if not long enough the eggs cannot be preserved. The caviare is then put into small sacks, which are pressed under a screw press to drive out the excess of salt. It is packed in barrels containing up to 1,000 pounds or left in the original sacks, which measure 8 by 20 inches. The average export of pressed caviare for the three years 1896 to 1898 has been more than 3,000 tons, representing a value of $1,400,000.—Scientific American.

Turkish Police Justice.

A trifling dispute between a Kurd and an Armenian on a street in Constantinople the other day led to an amusing instance of justice as it is dispensed by the Turkish police.

A tobacco box was found on the pavement, as alleged, by a Kurd. An Armenian claimed the box as his own. Neither would give in, and the dispute waxed warm. From words they were near coming to blows when a policeman came up, but he could not decide the question of ownership.

At last the Armenian suggested that the policeman ask what was in the box.

"Tobacco and cigarette paper," said the Kurd promptly.

"The box contains nothing but 10 piasters," said the Armenian, smiling.

The officer opened the box and, finding the Armenian was right, settled the dispute by giving him the box.

"The Armenian is the owner of the box," he said. "The Kurd is a liar." Here he smote the Kurd over the head. "Allah be praised! For my trouble in deciding this complicated affair I will keep the 10 piastres."

Fatal Brevity.

There is a little settlement of New Hampshire people in Kiowa county, Colo. Among other things they brought with them the New Hampshire aversion to using any more words in conversation than are absolutely necessary. Two of them met on the road recently and indulged in the following dialogue:

"Mornin, Si."

"Mornin, Josh."

"What'd you give your horse for bots?'

"Turpentine."

"Mornin."

"Mornin."

A few days later the men met again, and here's the way a hard luck story was told in mighty few words:

"Mornin, Si!"

"Mornin, Josh!"

"What'd you say you gave your horse for bots?"

"Turpentine."

"Killed mine."

"Mine too."

"Mornin!"

"Mornin!"

From a Wife's Diary.

Ah, me!

This evening he has just exclaimed "Hoot, mon!" at my fete champetre.

A Village Blacksmith Saved His Little Son's Life.

Mr. H. H. Black, the well-known village blacksmith at Grahamsville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son, five years old, has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult For sale by F. Duhring. *

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

Victim of an Awful Calamity.

"It came out, as I journeyed on horseback through Dakota, that almost every settler's land was under mortgage," said a westerner, "and one day, when I came upon a pioneer seated on the grass by the roadside, with a troubled look on his face, I asked him if it was the mortgage he was worrying about.

"'Wuss than that, stranger,' he replied as he looked up wearily.

"'Sickness or death in the family?'

"'Wuss than that.'

"'Then it must be a calamity indeed. You didn't lose family and home by a prairie fire?'

"'Nope, but you are right about its bein a calamity. I've been tryin to think of that word for two hours past. Yes, sir, you can put it down as an awful calamity.'

"'But won't you explain?' I persisted.

"'I will, sir. Thar was a mortgage on the claim, and I was feelin as big as any of my neighbors and takin things easy when my wife was left $600. Stranger, dare I tell you what she did with that money?'

"'She didn't lose it?'

"'No, sir. She jest paid that mortgage, bought two horses and a plow, and this mornin I was bounced out of my own cabin because I wouldn't peel off my coat and go to work! Yes, sir, you are right. It's a calamity—a calamity that's landed me on the outside—and between my durnod pride and her blamed spunk somebody'll be eatin grass afore Saturday night!'"—Washington Post.

Burns and Tam Samson.

Tam Samson was a gray haired veteran sportsman, who on one occasion, when out moorfowl shooting and feeling the weight of years begin to press upon him, expressed the belief that the expedition was to be his last and desired, in somewhat tragic style, that he might die and be buried in the moors.

Burns, hearing of this, immediately composed his famous elegy, in which he related at length the exploits and skill of his hero, ending each verse with the plaintive line, "Tam Samson's dead."

Some one having told Samson that Burns had written a poem—"a gey queer ane"—about him, he sent for the poet and in something like wrath asked him to read what he had written. On hearing the recital of his exploits he smiled grimly and seemed by no means displeased. "But," he exclaimed, "I'm no' dead yet, Robin. Wherefore should ye say that I'm dead?" Burns retired for a few minutes; then he returned and recited to Tam the following verse, which he had composed in the interval:

PER CONTRA.

Go, Fame, an canter like a filly
Through a' the streets an neuks of Killie;
Tell ev'ry social, honest billie
To cease his grievin,
For yet, unskaith'd by Death's gleg gullie,
Tam Samson's livin!

Samson laughed gleefully and exclaimed, "That's no' bad, Robin; that'll do," and the poet was received once more into his good graces.—Chambers' Journal.

Hunting Baboons In South Africa.

The baboons which frequent this rocky country are so destructive to the stock farms that organized raids have to be made upon them. It is useless trying to get a shot at the baboon during the day; he is a wily creature and knows the deadly effects of a rifle just as well as the hunter.

Early in the morning the party leave the farm and quietly surround the kranz, or rock, where the unsuspecting baboons are sleeping. At the first break of dawn the head baboon is on the move, to see that everything is right. He no sooner makes an appearance than he is greeted with a shower of lead. In an instant the whole troop is in an uproar. They rush hither and thither, howling with rage and pain, looking for a place of escape. But few of them succeed. Directly the hunters have retired, the blacks, who have been following up the party, make a rush for the tails of the baboons. Sometimes they are in so great a hurry to secure these that they fail to observe that the baboon is not dead and an ugly bite or tear is the result. The tails are taken to the magistrate's office, where a reward of 2s. 6d. each is paid for them by government.—London Chronicle.

She Didn't Step.

Conjurer (pointing to a large cabinet)—Now, ladies and gentlemen, allow me to exhibit my concluding trick. I would ask any lady in the company to step on the stage and stand in this cupboard. I will then close the door. When I open it again, the lady will have vanished without leaving a trace behind.

Gentleman in Front Seat (aside to his wife)—I say, old woman, do me a favor and step up.—London Fun.

More Suitable.

"I object to the personification of time in the guise of man," said Tenspot.

"Why?" asked Whiffett.

"So inappropriate. It should be a woman."

"Why?"

"You know the old proverb says, 'Time will tell.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Had Tried It.

"Did you ever experiment with the Kneipp cure?" asked one of the inmates of the convalescent ward at the hospital.

"Only for poverty," answered the other, a large, freckle faced woman. "I always went barefoot when we lived on the farm."—Chicago Tribune.

Not His Fault.

"Why, Johnny, how much you look like your father!" remarked a visitor to a small 4-year-old.

"Yes'm," answered Johnny, with an air of resignation, "that's what everybody says, but I can't help it."—New Orleans Picayune.

The Hardest Head Yet.

Cheerful Rastus hobbled painfully into the office of the city physicians, supported by two abbreviated broom handles.

"Well, Rassy, how is the limb today?" inquired one of the young men in charge.

"Tol'ble, tol'ble," replied Rastus, grinning like a new moon.

"Ah tell ye," he said as the dressings were changed, "Ah'ze heerd all kin's stories about niggers' haids—how hawd dey is an how presumshus it becomes er white man ter 'tempt ter break 'em—but lemme tell ye ye doan know about it tel ye runs ag'in de real t'ing. Me an dis feller wuz wo'kin togedder puttin up a b'iler, an a dessertation ariz between us, an Ah in de 'zuberance of me feelin's kicked wid all me mite. Well, Ah reckoned ter strike him on de haid, an Ah did. 'Deed Ah did! Caught him squar'. He nevah moved—no, sah. But de reaction didn't do er t'ing but break t'ree of me toes, an dat's what Ah'm here fo'—ha, ha, ha! Huh, huh!"

And cheerful Rastus, with the broken toes, laughed hilariously while the physician readjusted the splints.—Detroit Free Press.

A Kind Hearted Lady.

A Mrs. Abigail Vaughan left a legacy of 4 shillings per annum with which to buy fagots to burn heretics. She left it to St. Martin Outwich, now demolished. Mrs. Vaughan's remains were among those removed to Irford from the Church of St. Martin Outwich The facts are given in a history of St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, by a late rector.—Notes and Queries.

Dangerous.

"Papa," asked a 4-year-old youngster, "are little boys made of dust?"

"Yes, my son," was the reply.

"Well, then," continued the little fellow, "I wish you would make nurse stop using the brush on me. I'm afraid she'll brush me all away."

Dangers of Boating.

Clara—When George and I are married, I am to have my own way in everything.

Dora—Guess you won't.

Clara—Indeed I will. That's the bargain. Don't you remember I told you he proposed to me in a rowboat and asked if I'd float through life with him just that way?

"Yes."

"Well, he was rowing, but I was steering."—New York Weekly.

A Misleading Analogy.

"When you eat, be careful to leave off hungry," is advice often given at the dinner table, but seldom received in an obedient spirit.

The caution was repeated not long since to a young man of vigorous appetite.

"Pshaw," said he, "you might as well tell me to wash my face and be careful to leave off dirty."

They Swapped.

A little boy in Bangor, Me., was suffering from a severe cold, and his mother gave him a bottle of cough mixture to take while at school. On his return she asked if he had taken his medicine. "No," he candidly replied, "but Bobby Jones did. He liked it, so I swapped it with him for a handful of peanuts."

It is imprudent to keep an oil or gas stove burning in a sleeping room. They consume the oxygen and thus vitiate the air.

"Is God's Good Blessing"

"I feel that God has blessed Dr. Acker with special knowledge to prepare that grand medicine called Acker's English Remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles. It saves children every time when they are attacked by croup. Every mother should know about it, and I will tell about my experience. I had a darling boy of four years to die with croup. My doctor did all he could, but the child could not be made to vomit. That was before I knew of Acker's English Remedy. After I did hear of it, I got a bottle. When our little eighteen-months-old girl was stricken with croup, I gave her this medicine, and inside of twenty minutes she vomited and was better right away. During the winter she had croup four times, and it brought her through each time all right. I, myself, had bronchitis pretty bad, and Acker's English Remedy cured me completely. Before I close, I want to tell you of my neighbor's boy, named Jobe Nana. He had bronchitis, too. He got worse all the time. My husband went over to his house and told him about my case. Then his mother went to town, got a 50-cent bottle of Acker's English Remedy, and he took it. He came over to our house a few days later and said he was all right, and also said two doses relieved him from the start. You can understand by my letter why I think so much of Acker's English Remedy. I repeat that God's blessing must surely have been bestowed upon Dr. Acker."
